

SONYA Z. MEHTA, SBN 294411
 SIEGEL, YEE, BRUNNER & MEHTA
 475 14th Street, Suite 500
 Oakland, CA 94612
 Telephone: (510) 839-1200
 Facsimile: (510) 444-6698
sonyamehta@siegelyee.com
Admitted pro hac vice

RYAN A. HAMILTON, SBN 11587
 HAMILTON LAW
 5125 South Durango Drive
 Las Vegas, NV 89113
 702-818-1818
Ryan@HamLegal.com

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
 DISTRICT OF NEVADA

KPG INVESTMENTS INC., a Nevada Corporation; KENDALLE GETTY, an individual,

Plaintiffs,

vs.

MARLENA SONN, AND DOES 1-20 ,

Defendants.

MARLENA SONN,
 Plaintiff,

vs.

KENDALLE P. GETTY, as Trustee of the
 Pleiades Trust and as an individual, KPG
 INVESTMENTS, INC., as Trustee of the Pleiades Trust, ALEXANDRA SARAH
 GETTY, as Trustee of the Pleiades Trust and as an individual, ASG INVESTMENTS,
 INC., as Trustee of the Pleiades Trust,
 MINERVA OFFICE MANAGEMENT,
 INC., and ROBERT L. LEBERMAN,
 Defendants.

Consolidated case
 3:22-cv-00236-ART-CLB

DEFENDANT MARLENA SONN'S
 MPA ISO OPPOSITION TO KPG
 AND KENDALLE GETTY'S MOTION
 FOR PRELIMINARY INJUNCTION;
 FILED CONCURRENTLY WITH
 DECLARATION OF SONYA Z.
 MEHTA AND REQUEST FOR JUDICIAL NOTICE

TABLE OF CONTENTS

1	INTRODUCTION.....	1
2	SUMMARY OF ALLEGATIONS.....	1
3	1) KPG employed Sonn as its Vice President in their 2015 Employment Agreement.....	1
4	2) Breach of confidentiality allegations.....	2
5	LEGAL STANDARD.....	5
6	1) The extraordinary remedy of a preliminary injunction, best applied to undisputed facts where there is no adequate remedy of law.....	5
7	a) Irreparable injury may not be speculative.....	6
8	i) A remedy is available in contract claims.....	7
9	b) Movants must show a likelihood of prevailing on the merits.....	7
10	c) Movants must show the balance of harms tips towards them.....	8
11	d) Injunction must further the public interest. ....	8
12	e) Specificity of order.....	8
13	2) Mandatory injunction.....	8
14	ARGUMENT.....	9
15	1) The 2015 Agreement was only between Sonn and KPG. There was no confidentiality agreement between Sonn and Kendalle.....	9
16	2) Movants' first request to enforce confidentiality provision is not supported by any nonspeculative allegation of harm, fails due to their access to a remedy at law, relies on an unenforceable provision, and harms Sonn and the public.....	10
17	a) There was no irreparable harm to KPG or Kendalle.....	10
18	i) KPG provided no evidence of harm and only speculation about negative publicity.....	10
19	b) The alleged harm to Kendalle did not arise from the press at issue.....	11
20	c) Plaintiffs admitted they can seek damages and thus have an adequate remedy at law.....	11
21	d) Plaintiffs have not demonstrated likely success on the merits.....	12
22	i) This information was not confidential.....	12

1	ii) The clause is unenforceable as it is vague, overbroad, and against
2	public policy.....	12
3	e) Sonn will be more harmed than Movants.....	14
4	f) Public interest favors denial of the injunction.....	14
5	3) The first through fourth requests seek a mandatory preliminary injunction
6	that is incomprehensible and burdensome.....	14
7	a) The law and facts do not “clearly favor” KPG or Kendalle.....	15
8	b) KPG or Kendalle will not suffer extreme or very serious damage.....	15
9	c) The balance of equities favors Sonn.....	16
10	d) The public interest favors Sonn.....	17
11	CONCLUSION.....	17

TABLE OF AUTHORITIES

FEDERAL CASES

Colorado River Indian Tribes v. Town of Parker , 776 F.2d 846 (9th Cir. 1985).....	6
Garcia v. Google , 786 F.3d 733 (9th Cir. 2015).....	9
Goldie's Bookstore, Inc. v. Superior Ct. of State of Cal. , 739 F.2d 466 (9th Cir. 1984).....	6
Lipin v. Hunt , WL 1344406 (S.D.N.Y. 2015).....	13
Marlyn Nutraceuticals, Inc. v. Mucos Pharma GmbH &amp; Co. , 571 F.3d 873 (9th Cir. 2009).....	9
Playup, Inc. v. Mintas , WL 5763557 (D. Nev. 2021).....	10
Reinhard v. Johnson , 209 F.Supp.3d 207 (D.D.C. 2016).....	6
Regents of Univ. of Cal. v. Amer. Broadcasting Cos., Inc. , 747 F.2d 511 (9th Cir. 1984).....	6, 7, 10
Rent-A-Ctr., Inc. v. Canyon Television &amp; Appliance Rental, Inc. , 944 F.2d 597 (9th Cir. 1991).....	7, 10
Saini v. Int'l Game Tech. , 434 F.Supp.2d 913 (D. Nev. 2006).....	5, 6, 7, 8, 11, 12
Union Pac. R. Co. v. Mower , 219 F.3d 1069 (9th Cir. 2000).....	7, 8, 10
Winter v. Nat. Res. Def. Council, Inc. , 555 U.S. 7 (2008).....	7, 8

STATE CASES

Adelson v. Harris , 133 Nev. 512 (2017) .....	13
Com. Cabinet Co. v. Mort Wallin of Lake Tahoe, Inc. , 103 Nev. 238 (1987)...	7
Gramanz v. T-Shirts &amp; Souvenirs, Inc. , 111 Nev. 478 (1995).....	7
Sahara Gaming Corp. v. Culinary Workers Union Local 226 , 115 Nev. 212 (1999).....	13

FEDERAL RULES

Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, Rule 1.....	17
---	----

1	Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, Rule 26.....	16
---	--	----

2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19
20
21
22
23
24
25
26
27
28

INTRODUCTION

Plaintiffs KPG Investments, Inc. (KPG) and Kendalle Getty (Kendalle) moved for preliminary injunction against Defendant Marlena Sonn. (ECF No. 162.) This Court should deny the motion because Plaintiffs evidenced no harm, the confidentiality clause is unenforceable, and the balance of equities and public interest tips towards Sonn.

SUMMARY OF ALLEGATIONS

The Pleiades Trust (“Pleiades”) was established for the benefit of Kendalle P. Getty (“Kendalle”)<sup>1</sup> and others. (ECF No. 105, KPG and Kendalle First Amended Complaint (FAC), ¶ 12, filed July 10, 2023, amending March 16, 2022, Complaint.) KPG Investments (“KPG”) is a trustee of Pleiades, and a corporation organized under Chapter 78 of the Nevada Revised Statutes and governed by the laws of Nevada. (Id., ¶¶ 1, 13.) Kendalle was KPG’s President and sole director. (Id., ¶ 13; ECF No. 105-1, ¶ 2.1.)

1) KPG employed Sonn as its Vice President in their 2015 Employment Agreement.

On November 1, 2015, Sonn and KPG, not Kendalle, entered into an agreement (“2015 Employment Agreement”) to employ Sonn as Vice President (“VP”) of KPG. (Id., ¶ 14, ECF No. 105-1, 2015 Employment Agreement, ¶ 1; see also ECF No. 162-1, Declaration of Kendalle P. Getty, ¶ 5, “Ms. Sonn and KPG entered into ... agreement.”) Sonn served KPG as a corporate officer. (ECF No. 105, ¶ 17.)

“Sonn was formerly employed as KPG and ASG’s Vice President.” (ECF No. 100, Order Denying Motion to Seal and Granting Motion to Amend, 2:2.)

The 2015 Employment Agreement (ECF No. 105-1) between Sonn and KPG contained the following provisions:

“1.2. Scope of Duties. To the best of Employee’s ability, Employee shall faithfully, honestly and efficiently perform the duties assigned in accordance with the policies of the Corporation, the instructions of the sole director of the Corporation, and the employment standards set forth below in Section 1.5. ...

---

<sup>1</sup> Kendalle P. Getty will be referenced by her first name in this consolidated action to avoid confusion between Getty family members who share the same last name.

1 1.5. Employment Standards. In the performance of Employee's duties under this 2 Agreement, Employee shall adhere to such employment standards, ethical 3 practices, and standards of care and competence as are customary for an 4 employee holding a similar position as a vice president of a corporation serving as a trustee to a family trust.

5 12. Entire Agreement. This Agreement ... contains the entire agreement and 6 understanding of the parties with respect to the entire subject matter thereof ... ."
 (Id., emphasis added.)

7 The FAC alleged that Sonn was a Certified Financial Planner, whose 8 responsibilities to KPG included managing investments and providing financial advice.
 9 (Id., ¶ 18.) However, there was no allegation that the 2015 Employment Agreement or 10 any other source committed Sonn to acting as a Certified Financial Planner or provider
 11 of financial advice to Kendalle as President of KPG, or to provide Kendalle personal 12 financial advice under the 2015 KPG Employment Agreement. There was no allegation
 13 of any bylaws or policies related to Sonn's role at KPG.

14 Kendalle's declaration here, on the other hand, stated, "In her role as Vice 15 President of KPG, Ms. Sonn provided advice, participated in Pleiades Trust trustee
 16 meetings, managed sensitive financial information related to KPG, the Pleiades Trust,
 17 and my own financial affairs." (ECF No., 162-1, ¶ 6, executed February 8, 2023.)

18 On November 30, 2021, KPG terminated Sonn. (ECF No. 105, ¶ 65.) At that time,
 19 Kendalle also terminated Sonn in "her relationship providing financial planning services
 20 to Kendalle." (Id.)

21 2) Breach of confidentiality allegations.

22 The 2015 Agreement between KPG and Sonn contained the following provision:

23 "Employee acknowledges the Corporation's right and title to all proprietary
 24 materials which constitutes all materials used in the Corporation's business, 25 including financial information and reports relating to any trust for which the 26 Corporation may serve as trustee and agrees not to disclose any such material to 27 any third party except in the course of the duties of Employee on behalf of the Corporation or as may be required by court order or lawful subpoena, after reasonable notice to the Corporation." (Id., ¶ 16.)

28 There was no allegation of any confidentiality agreement between Kendalle and Sonn in the FAC.

On April 5, 2022, Vanity Fair published a 20-page photo-article entitled, “John Galliano Gowns, Royal Ascot, and Kelp Farms: Meet the Fourth Generation of Gettys,” a “sneak preview” of the new book “Growing Up Getty.” See Request for Judicial Notice, Exhibit 1, pp. 1, 11-14; see also Declaration of Sonya Z. Mehta (“Mehta Decl.”), ¶ 3. It described Kendalle’s family history including, “Billionaire Gordon Getty’s secret family of 4 revealed; S.F. socialite has 3 daughters; inheritance being negotiated.” See RJN, Exh. 1, p. 11. It discussed Kendalle’s artwork at her Instagram account “@Freudian.slit,” her founding of the “Angry Feminist Pin-Up Calendar,” her publication of “The Gay Agenda,” a weekly planner; and her efforts “to promote empowered sexuality practices and radically open artistic expression.” Id., pp. 11-14. It mentioned Johnny Latu, her boyfriend and then-fiancé. Id. There are pictures of the two together on the Internet; Latu is a brown-skinned person. See Mehta Decl., ¶ 4.

On May 11, 2022, Sonn filed a lawsuit against Plaintiffs in the U.S. District Court of Eastern New York. (ECF No., 105, ¶ 67.) On June 21, 2022, the Los Angeles Times published an article that Plaintiffs alleged cited “extensively” to the lawsuit. (Id., ¶ 68.) Plaintiffs failed to identify these citations. It alleged, without support, that Sonn contacted a LA Times reporter to disclose the filing. (Id.)

On January 16, 2023, The New Yorker published an article about the lawsuit. (Id., ¶ 71; ECF No. 162-3, the New Yorker article (“NYA”).) The FAC alleged that in the NYA, Sonn shared information about Kendalle and KPG, including but not limited to, “KPG’s investment strategies, financial transactions and deliberations, taxes, and payout expectations.” (Id., ¶ 72.) It alleged she gained this information while employed as KPG’s VP, and that she spoke to the New Yorker journalist Evan Osnos twice. (Id., ¶¶ 73-74.) Plaintiffs identified the so-called confidential information as follows.

“Sonn is quoted as the source for facts related to her employment with KPG, communications between her and Kendalle, the specific amounts of money Sonn managed, tax strategies, and other sensitive financial information for both KPG and the Pleiades trust. (See id. (describing Sonn’s disclosure of information related to the ‘complex . . . inner workings of the [Getty] family’; ‘reshuffling of more than $200 million’ to redistribute trust fund shares following the death of Kendalle’s sibling; strategy and corporate structure of entity created to manage

1 Kendalle's interest in Pleiades trust; KPG's methodology for considering
2 investment decisions; exact amount of Kendalle's 'nest egg'; and detailed
3 information regarding tax strategies for both KPG and the Pleiades trust).)"
(ECF No. 162, 5:2-12.)

4 On February 8, 2023, Plaintiffs filed for preliminary injunction. (ECF No. 48.)
5 Therein, Kendalle declared, "It appears Ms. Sonn disclosed facts in an incomplete or 6 misleading manner to The New Yorker reporter and caused the article to portray me in a 7 negative light." (ECF No. 48-1, ¶ 14; 162-1, ¶ 14.) The FAC alleged no harm to KPG, but 8 harm to Kendalle because she received messages Plaintiffs believed were due to the 9 article. (Id., ¶ 75.) Kendalle declared she received these email messages through her 10 public website two days after NYA. (ECF No. 162-1, ¶ 15.) The only example stated,

11 "Ugly tranny looking whore with ugly face and body and your ugly friends are 12 trash like your ugly pedo looking fag bf and that other skinny brown illegal is trash too. Like that ugly pathetic honkie suck a ugly dick ugly bitch."

13 The NYA published no pictures of Kendalle. There was no mention of her 14 romantic involvements, friends, or any person of color involved with Kendalle, except 15 Marlena Sonn, who is not pictured either. Kendalle's public website contains her
16 boundary-pushing art. See RJN, Exhibit 2, pp. 1-6 of exhibit; Mehta Decl., ¶ 5. In her 17 "About" page, Kendalle noted her support for progressive causes. RJN, Exh. 2, pp. 7-10.
18 There is a "news" section of the website with press hits. Id., pp. 10-16.

19 On April 13, 2023, this Court issued an order granting a stipulated Protective 20 Order. (ECF No. 96.) The Order required parties to mark confidential information as 21 such and provided for a process to challenge such designations. In August 2023, Sonn
22 sent a voluminous document production to Movants who have yet to label any of those 23 documents "confidential." Mehta Decl., ¶ 6.

24 Plaintiffs have not alleged any disclosures since the NYA was published in 25 February 2023, over a year ago.

26 Here, Plaintiffs moved for an order for the following, binding Sonn and her 27 agents and effective during the pendency of this suit:

28 (a) enforcing the confidentiality clause in Sonn's Employment Agreement;

(b) compelling Sonn to provide a sworn accounting of all of her disclosures of covered confidential information as defined in the Agreement within 14 days of the entry of order;

(c) compelling Sonn to turn over to the Movants all copies of written covered confidential information as defined in the Agreement in her possession within seven days; and

(d) compelling Sonn to refrain from using any confidential information as defined in the Agreement except in the course of this litigation, subject to “a protective order.” (ECF No. 162, 2:1-3:2.)

LEGAL STANDARD

1) The extraordinary remedy of a preliminary injunction is best applied to undisputed facts where there is no adequate remedy of law.

A party seeking a preliminary injunction must show,

“1. the moving party will suffer irreparable injury if injunctive relief is not granted;

2. the moving party will probably prevail on the merits;

3. in balancing the equities, the non-moving party will not be harmed more than the movant is helped by the injunction; and

4. granting the injunction is in the public interest.”

Saini v. Int’l Game Tech., 434 F.Supp.2d 913, 918 (D. Nev. 2006).

“[A] preliminary injunction should only be granted if the movant does not have an adequate remedy at law.” Id. at 918-919. It is an “extraordinary and drastic remedy, one that should not be granted unless the movant, by a clear showing, carries the burden of persuasion.” Id. at 919. “The cases best suited to preliminary relief are those in which the important facts are undisputed, and the parties simply disagree about what the legal consequences are of those facts.” Id.

In Saini, IGT hired Saini as a technical trainer. Id., 916. Saini agreed,

“(a) That during his employment and thereafter he will hold in strictest confidence, and not disclose to any person, firm, or corporation, without the express written authorization of an officer of [IGT] any information, manufacturing technique, process, formula, development or experimental work, work in process, business, trade secret, or any other secret or confidential matter relating to the products, sales, or business of [IGT] or its affiliates or subsidiaries

1 except as such disclosure or use may be required in connection with [Saini's]
2 work for [IGT].” Id.

3 IGT terminated Saini on suspicion that he was removing confidential information
4 without permission. Id., 917. Meanwhile, IGT was suing the Siena Hotel Spa and Casino
5 (“The Siena”) to collect on unpaid invoices. Id. The Siena responded with the assertion
6 that IGT’s products in question were defective. Id. Saini learned about this in the news
7 and approached The Siena to offer himself as an expert witness. Id.

8 He provided internal IGT communications summarizing malfunction reports and 9 analysis, “re-work” instructions stamped “confidential”; an internal memo he wrote
10 identifying the machine problems which the court labelled an “expert report” and which 11 Saini had provided to an IGT competitor, and his testimony that IGT placed used parts 12 in equipment sold as new. Id.

13 a) Irreparable injury may not be speculative.

14 The court held that Saini would create irreparable injury to IGT because he 15 disclosed trade secrets which deprived IGT of a property interest and allowed its 16 competitors to reproduce work without investing the same time and interest. Id., 919.
17 However, it held there was no harm as to damage to IGT’s reputation and customer 18 relationships, or enablement of fraud and theft by people who would use the 19 information to tamper with devices. Id., 919. These were “too speculative to support a 20 finding of irreparable injury,” as plaintiff failed to present evidence of damage to 21 customer relationships, and the threat of fraud was too remote. Id.

22 Indeed, “speculative injury does not constitute irreparable injury.” Colorado
23 River Indian Tribes v. Town of Parker, 776 F.2d 846, 849 (9th Cir. 1985); see also 24 Reinhard v. Johnson, 209 F.Supp.3d 207, 220 (D.D.C. 2016), “[T]he showing of 25 reputational harm must be concrete and corroborated, not merely speculative.” The loss
26 of goodwill, without factual allegations, is also too speculative. Goldie's Bookstore, Inc.
27 v. Superior Ct. of State of Cal., 739 F.2d 466, 472 (9th Cir. 1984).

28 Saini held that damage to reputation is not irreparable injury. Saini, 919. Regents of Univ. of Cal. v. Amer. Broadcasting Cos., Inc., 747 F.2d 511 (9th Cir. 1984) found

1 intangible and irreparable injury where a football television contract with some colleges
 2 injured non-included colleges' intangible interests in recruiting, alumni support, and 3 national ranking. See also Rent-A-Ctr., Inc. v. Canyon Television & Appliance Rental,
 4 Inc., 944 F.2d 597, 603 (9th Cir. 1991), "The advertising efforts and goodwill that RAC
 5 sought to protect are similar to the recruitment efforts and goodwill in Regents."

6 Saini at 919 noted, "Disclosure of non-trade secret confidential information is 7 similarly recognized as a serious harm." It cited Union Pac. R. Co. v. Mower, 219 F.3d
 8 1069 (9th Cir. 2000). There, the court found irreparable damage in a former employee's 9 disclosure of his report of how the company injured its workers because "because such 10 information "may be used ... in a number of lawsuits against [UP]." Id., 1072.

11 i) A remedy is available in contract claims.

12 In Gramanz v. T-Shirts & Souvenirs, Inc., 111 Nev. 478, 485 (1995), the court
 13 ruled that since there was no non-speculative evidence of loss of T-shirt sales in 14 shareholder's claim against another shareholder for breach of covenant not to compete, 15 the award would be reduced to only nominal damages. "A plaintiff who proves a right to 16 damages without proving the amount as well is only entitled to nominal damages." Com.
 17 Cabinet Co. v. Mort Wallin of Lake Tahoe, Inc., 103 Nev. 238, 240 (1987).

18 b) Movants must show a likelihood of prevailing on the merits.

19 In Saini, the court found that "IGT has carried its burden of proving that the 20 information is economically valuable and not generally known to the public, which 21 fulfills the definitions of both a trade secret and confidential information." Saini at 924.
 22 In that case, one document was labelled "confidential," and the information went to the 23 heart of how the devices functioned, which was economically valuable.

24 Defendant Saini contended the clause was unenforceable due to public policy.
 25 The court identified "three different situations where such agreements might not be 26 enforceable: (1) if the interest in the agreement's enforcement is outweighed in the 27 circumstances by a public policy harmed by enforcement of the agreement, (2) if the 28 agreement is being used by one party within the context of litigation to suppress an adverse party's access to evidence, and (3) if the employee is disclosing an illegal or wrongful act for a purely public purpose, such as whistleblowing.” Id., 923.

Saini’s decision to disclose to a party adverse to IGT proved breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing attached to those agreements because it evidenced a deliberate intent to violate the spirit of the agreements. Id., 924.

c) Movants must show the balance of harms tips towards them.

In Saini, Saini’s only harm would be loss of his witness fees. Id., 925. “The policy against the imposition of judicial restraints prior to an adjudication of the merits becomes more significant when there is reason to believe that the decree will be burdensome.” Winter v. Nat. Res. Def. Council, Inc., 555 U.S. 7, 27, (2008).

d) Injunction must further the public interest.

The final test is the public interest inquiry. “[T]here is no public interest against enforcing the agreement where an individual has taken it upon himself to disclose confidential information solely for pecuniary gain.” Saini, 925.

e) Specificity of order.

An overbroad injunction is impermissible. In Union Pac. R. Co. v. Mower, 219 F.3d 1069, 1077 (9th Cir. 2000), the appellate court held that the district court’s findings of fact and conclusions of law specifically identified only a single study conducted by defendant. “[G]iven the multitude of tasks and subjects [Defendant] must have addressed during his tenure at [Plaintiff-employer], the injunction’s lack of specificity and its reliance on just the study and position paper to support its broad prohibitions are fatal flaws.” Id.

2) Mandatory injunction.

The legal standard for granting a disfavored mandatory injunction requires a more stringent showing than for a prohibitory injunction. Winter v. Nat’l Resources Defense Council, Inc., 555 U.S. 7 (2008), is thus modified to require the movant to show: (1) the law and facts “clearly favor” its position (rather than that it is merely likely to succeed); (2) movant will suffer irreparable harm that is “extreme or very serious

1 damage” in the absence of injunctive relief; (3) the balance of equities clearly favors
2 movant; and (4) an injunction is in the public interest. Garcia v. Google, 786 F.3d 733,
3 740 (9th Cir. 2015); Marlyn Nutraceuticals, Inc. v. Mucos Pharma GmbH & Co., 571
4 F.3d 873, 879 (9th Cir. 2009).

5 ARGUMENT

6 1) The 2015 Agreement was only between Sonn and KPG. There was no 7 confidentiality agreement between Sonn and Kendalle.

8 KPG and Sonn signed the 2015 Employment Agreement with the confidentiality
9 clause at issue. Plaintiffs’ first cause of action alleged only the 2015 Agreement as the 10 source of any duty of confidentiality. (ECF No. 105, ¶¶ 76-85.) The second cause of 11 action pleaded that Sonn breached the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing 12 by contravening the Agreement with KPG, and nothing else. (ECF No. 105, ¶ 89.)

13 The 2015 Agreement stated, “Sonn’s breach of the Employment Agreement
14 caused anonymous individuals to send Kendalle offensive and threatening messages.”
15 Id., ¶ 82. However, the 2015 Agreement limits Sonn’s duties to that of a Vice President
16 to a corporation. There was no allegation that such a role included personal financial 17 advice to the Directors of the corporation, nor does the law support such a reading.

18 While Kendalle declared the agreement created a personal duty from Sonn
19 towards her, the Agreement stated that it was the “Entire Agreement,” ECF No. 105-1, ¶
20 12, and there was no language therein supporting a personal duty. There was no
21 allegation of any agreement with Kendalle. Therefore, Sonn’s confidentiality agreement
22 was only with KPG, not Kendalle.

23 Thus, the disclosure of “communications between [Sonn] and Kendalle,” money
24 she managed for Kendalle personally, Kendalle’s nest egg, and any other information
25 about Kendalle in the articles cannot be properly considered here as covered by the 2015
26 Agreement.

1 2) Movants' first request to enforce confidentiality provision is not
 2 supported by any nonspeculative allegation of harm, fails due to their
 3 access to a remedy at law, relies on an unenforceable provision, and 4 harms Sonn and the public.

5 Plaintiffs' first request is to enforce the confidentiality provision through 6 preliminary injunction.

7 a) There was no irreparable harm to KPG or Kendalle.

8 i) KPG provided no evidence of harm and only speculation about 9 negative publicity.

10 KPG provided no evidence of any harm to the corporation. At best, KPG
 11 speculated that there could be "negative public exposure," with no evidence of this. (ECF 12 No. 162, 5:41-18.) Even the message to Kendalle, to which Sonn had no duty as pleaded,
 13 was directly to her and not public.

14 In any case, KPG could not show reputational harm at all. It failed entirely to 15 meet the standard set by Regents and Rent-A-Ctr, which presented losses in advertising
 16 and recruiting, which KPG cannot show. KPG cannot and did not offer concerns about 17 increased lawsuits as in Union Pacific. No one has standing to sue KPG except perhaps 18 Kendalle. Thus, the harm alleged here is entirely speculative and without any 19 corroboration and the motion fails.

20 Playup, Inc. v. Mintas, WL 5763557, at *4–6 (D. Nev. 2021) does not support
 21 KPG. There, "Plaintiff has thus shown that allowing Defendant to continuously spread 22 disparaging comments concerning PlayUp, Inc. will likely result in immediate and 23 irreparable injury to Plaintiff in the form of loss of income, loss of goodwill, damage to 24 its reputation, and damage to its business relationships." Here, Movants alleged no loss
 25 of income, no customers who could lose goodwill, only mere speculation about negative
 26 publicity, and no business relationships. In addition, the court found harm to Playup 27 from breach of non-disparagement, not present here.

28 The Getty family trusts do not make or sell any product or service to the general public. They therefore have no customer base or non-public know-how to protect.
 Movants did not accuse Sonn of taking or using the supposedly "confidential"

1 information for her own monetary gain. There is simply no comparison between the 2 concrete commercial harms the courts have prevented through prohibitory injunctions
 3 and the speculation about negative press concerning an inheritance trust here.

4 b) The alleged harm to Kendalle did not arise from the press at issue.

5 Movants failed to cite any case law establishing that the messages, of which there
 6 was only one evidenced, satisfied the irreparable harm standard.

7 The harm alleged to Kendalle is simply too speculative to warrant a preliminary
 8 injunction, especially where there was no contractual duty pleaded as here. The one
 9 email cited made no mention of wealth or alleged tax evasion and thus had no
 10 connection to the NYA or LA Times article. The sole email referenced Kendalle's 11 appearance, her boyfriend ("bf"), and a person with brown skin, none of which are 12 discussed or pictured in the NYA, but which Vanity Fair wrote about, her website
 13 shows, and in the case of Latu, pictures are easily found on the Internet.

14 Kendalle's public art is provocative and she and the Gettys receive constant press,
 15 including with her photo, photos of her brown-skinned romantic partner, and friends. It 16 is more likely the offending comment was a reaction to her constant presence in the 17 media. In this context, timing alone is too speculative and remote. Unfortunately, the 18 one private message cited is par for the course for any woman who simply exists on the 19 Internet, let alone one who is famous and produces outré art like Kendalle.

20 c) Plaintiffs admitted they can seek damages and thus have an adequate 21 remedy at law.

22 "[A] preliminary injunction should only be granted if the movant does not have 23 an adequate remedy at law." Saini at 918-919. Plaintiffs admitted they have an adequate 24 remedy at law if their claims prevail in at least nominal damages. (ECF No. 162, 8:12-25 26.) Thus, this Court need not impose this extraordinary measure.

26 d) Plaintiffs have not demonstrated likely success on the merits.

27 i) This information was not confidential.

28 In Saini, the court noted that IGT carried its "burden" to show "the information [disclosed was] economically valuable and not generally known to the public, which fulfills the definitions of both a trade secret and confidential information.” Saini at 924. The Gettys are world-famous for their outsized wealth. It is public knowledge that Kendalle’s father Gordon Getty is a billionaire, and Kendalle is an heir to that wealth. See Request for Judicial Notice, ¶ 1, Exhibit 1, Vanity Fair article.) Thus, that Sonn managed millions of dollars, including reshuffling millions after a death, are reasonable inferences that the public would make from facts “generally known” to it. Saini at 924.

Nor was this information “economically valuable.” Id. The trust has no competitors. It is not a business. There was no allegation of any economic value. Tax strategies to lessen taxes cannot be considered economically valuable because the government is not a business entity or competitor. Movants have simply not met their burden to show the information was not generally known and economically valuable.

Movants have not proven or even argued that Sonn’s disclosure that KPG employed her is confidential under the Agreement. Movants have failed to specifically identify the supposedly confidential information, page and line numbers, and the law supporting their assertion. However, they seek for Sonn to do this in order to delay and disrupt her prosecution of her case. Indeed, they seek for this Court to undertake this effort because the Order must be specific and comprehensible.

ii) The clause is unenforceable as it is vague, overbroad, and against public policy.

The confidentiality clause is vague and overbroad. In addition, it is unenforceable due to public policy. Sonn fulfills any one of the three separate Saini factors. First, the interest in the agreement's enforcement, if that was even possible, is outweighed in the circumstances by a public policy. Enforcement of an incomprehensibly broad confidentiality agreement pales in comparison to employees’ rights to expose possible illegal conduct. Here, unlike Saini, Sonn spoke to the press about possible tax evasion, not to Plaintiffs’ (non-existent) competitors.

Second, Plaintiffs’ request to return innumerable and unidentified documents which could result in contempt of court if Sonn makes the wrong guess is an effort to suppress Sonn’s access to evidence by diverting her attention to this impossible mission.

1 Notably, there is a protective order in place where Plaintiffs can identify what of Sonn's
2 discovery responses are supposedly confidential. Sonn has turned over a voluminous
3 production, but Movants have not labelled even one document confidential. If they
4 cannot identify this material, how can she? Thus, this appears to be more of a litigation
5 tactic than genuine effort to enforce the clause.

6 Third, Sonn disclosed an act she reasonably believed was illegal to the press.
7 There was no allegation she did so for a purpose other than in the public's interest.

8 The facts here are hotly disputed and thus injunctive relief is not best suited.
9 Disputed facts include what specific information in the NYA was supposedly 10 confidential, whether that information was confidential, the extent of the confidentiality 11 clause, whether it was breached, and so on.

12 Sonn's disclosures were also protected by the litigation and fair report privilege.
13 A party claiming her contractual rights have been breached has an absolute privilege to 14 present that contract and related documents and information to a court. Lipin v. Hunt,
15 WL 1344406, at *8 (S.D.N.Y. 2015). Reporting the already-public allegations in a 16 complaint to a member of the media is covered by a separate absolute privilege known 17 as the fair-report privilege. Nevada law "has long recognized a special privilege of 18 absolute immunity from defamation given to the news media and the general public to 19 report newsworthy events in judicial proceedings." Sahara Gaming Corp. v. Culinary 20 Workers Union Local 226, 115 Nev. 212, 214 (1999).

21 The privilege not only applies to the news media itself, but also "extends to any 22 person who makes a republication of a judicial proceeding from material that is 23 available to the general public," such as a complaint filed in court. Id. Like the litigation 24 privilege, the fair-report privilege is absolute, meaning it "precludes liability even where 25 the defamatory statements are published with knowledge of their falsity and personal ill 26 will toward the plaintiff." Adelson v. Harris, 133 Nev. 512, 515 (2017). And, like the 27 litigation privilege, the fair-report privilege immunizes the reporting person from all 28 forms of "civil liability." Adelson, 133 Nev. at 519. The article provided a fair and accurate description of the complaint allegations.

e) Sonn will be more harmed than Movants.

Sonn will experience greater hardship than Movants if there is a preliminary injunction. The 2015 Employment Agreement is overbroad and vague. Under it, she would be forced to decide unilaterally what is or is not confidential, at the risk of violating a court order. The proposal would also improperly and illegally prohibit Sonn from further exercising her absolute litigation and fair-report privileges. The order would leave the Movants free to say whatever they wish to the public about Sonn or the lawsuit. Such a one-sided gag order would be thoroughly inequitable.

On the Movants' side, they have not shown irreparable harm if the injunction is denied. They will only need to use the normal and traditional means of civil discovery to investigate their theories, as before. The Movants admitted they can and will seek the traditional monetary remedies for breach of contract, if they can allege and prove that any occurred, and therefore have an adequate remedy at law.

f) Public interest favors denial of the injunction.

The litigation and fair report privilege are in the public interest. Whistleblower reports to the press are in the public interest and outweigh overbroad and unenforceable confidentiality clauses. Movants have not alleged any solely pecuniary interest by Sonn.

3) The first through fourth requests seek a mandatory preliminary injunction that is incomprehensible and burdensome.

The 2015 confidential provision is so overbroad and incomprehensible, it seeks to force Sonn to review all her documentation and decide what is confidential, thus ordering her to take action. It is therefore a mandatory injunction. It does not meet the standards. Movants cannot show that the law clearly favors their vague and incomprehensible confidentiality clause or that Sonn violated it. They presented no harm let alone very serious damage, nor that the equities clearly favor them. They have not shown how the public interest of this chilling clause outweighs Sonn's speech for the public good.

1 Even if the Court finds the first request is not mandatory, the remaining requests
2 to account for her disclosures of all purportedly “confidential” information within 14
3 days of the order, compel return it, and compel her not to use such information except 4 for litigation and under the protective order, are undoubtedly a mandatory preliminary 5 injunction. As such, it is highly disfavored and carries a higher standard.

6 a) The law and facts do not “clearly favor” KPG or Kendalle.

7 At the outset, Kendalle is not even a party to the 2015 Agreement confidentiality
8 provision. She fails as neither the law nor facts favor her at all.

9 This Court has not ruled on the litigation and fair report privilege, and Sonn is 10 likely to succeed there. The NYA information was not confidential, as it was generally 11 known or inferred and had no economic value. The clause is unenforceable due to its 12 overbreadth and vagueness. It is also unenforceable because it violates public policy. It 13 would offend public policy to chill whistleblowers from speaking to the press (not 14 competitors as in Saini) about possible tax evasion, or workers from speaking about 15 their employment. It would also negatively impact freedom of the press. Forcing Sonn to 16 turn over countless documents under a vague standard is a litigation tactic that is unfair
17 to her. Indeed, even Movants have not been able to do so.

18 Sonn disclosed the information in the interest of public policy. That is obvious 19 throughout the article which reports on tax evasion by the super wealthy, one of the 20 most important issues to the public today.

21 b) KPG or Kendalle will not suffer extreme or very serious damage.

22 Kendalle is not covered by the 2015 Agreement. Plaintiffs’ alleged harm to 23 Kendalle in the form of one message through her public website is speculative and not 24 sufficiently evidenced to be caused by the NYA by both the sole email’s plain text and the 25 widespread media coverage of Kendalle and her family, including Kendalle’s own media
26 efforts. Nor did Movants cite to law supporting the alleged harm.

27 KPG could only speculate about negative publicity with no evidence whatsoever.
28 It has no customers by which to lose goodwill, no competitors, no advertising or

1 recruitment campaigns, and cannot plead loss of income. There was no extreme or 2 serious damage here.

3 c) The balance of equities favors Sonn.

4 Plaintiffs' mandatory injunction would strip Sonn of her legal rights. The second 5 request forcing her to account all supposed disclosures under oath would leapfrog the 6 discovery processes provided by the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure and this Court's
7 scheduling orders. The injunction order would mandate providing something like a set
8 of under-oath Initial Disclosures, but rather than listing facts supporting Sonn's claims,
9 as Rule 26 requires, it would force Sonn to compile a list of facts that Plaintiffs would try
10 to use to support their claims. That type of information should instead be sought using 11 the normal discovery tools of document requests, interrogatories, and depositions, with 12 their attendant time frames and procedural protections.

13 The third request is an order to compel Sonn to turn over to the Movants, in 14 seven days, all "Confidential Information" in her possession and certify under oath that 15 she has done so. However, the enforceable scope of the vaguely worded confidentiality
16 clause in Sonn's Employment Agreement will be vigorously contested in this case.
17 Forcing Sonn to attempt to determine now what the clause does and does not cover, on 18 pain of being held in contempt of an injunction order, would be completely unfair. The 19 parties' dispute on this issue, as with the other merits issues, should be resolved through 20 the usual discovery process instead.

21 Plaintiffs' fourth request is for a broad gag order that would prevent Sonn from 22 using or referencing any "confidential" information for any purpose other than as 23 necessary for the litigation. Here again Sonn would be forced to decide unilaterally what 24 is or is not confidential – a task even Movants have failed to perform - at the risk of 25 violating a court order. The proposal would also improperly prohibit Sonn from further 26 exercising her absolute litigation or fair-report privilege.

27 On Plaintiffs' side, there will be no irreparable injury of an extreme or severe 28 nature at all if their proposed mandatory injunction is denied. They will simply use the

1 normal and traditional means of civil discovery to investigate their theories. They also 2 have the access to public fora to present their side of the story if they wish and as they
3 did in the NYA where Bob Leberman and Sarah Getty gave quotes. They will ultimately 4 be able to seek the traditional monetary remedies for breach of contract, if they can 5 allege and prove that any occurred. Comparing the equities, then, heavily favors denying 6 the proposed mandatory injunction.

7 d) The public interest favors Sonn.

8 The Movants argued that the public interest is served generally by enforcing
9 confidentiality agreements and fiduciary duties. However, the agreement is vague,
10 overbroad, and unenforceable. Also, the public interest in obtaining information about 11 litigation is so great that the courts have established two absolute privileges to ensure 12 that disseminating that information is not impeded: the absolute litigation privilege and 13 the absolute fair-report privilege. The public policy interests animating those privileges
14 outweighs Movants' self-interest.

15 Public policy also favors conducting litigation according to the orderly and fair
16 processes embodied in the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. The severe impairments of 17 Sonn's discovery rights and remedies that the proposed mandatory injunction would 18 impose run directly counter to the clear policy that the federal procedures should be 19 used "to secure the just, speedy, and inexpensive determination of every action and 20 proceeding." Fed. R. Civ. P. 1. Public policy therefore counsels against granting the 21 extraordinary relief of a mandatory preliminary injunction under these circumstances.

22 CONCLUSION

23 In conclusion, it would be impossible for this Court to even specify what 24 information would be enjoined from disclosure. Even Movants have failed to do so.
25 Kendalle is not covered by the confidentiality clause, and even if she was, her alleged 26 harm is far too speculative to warrant this extraordinary remedy. KPG has alleged no
27 harm at all and no intangible harm as described in case law. The confidentiality clause is 28 unenforceable as per public policy. There are myriad disputed facts. In addition, there

1 are important public policy concerns here.

2 An injunction would unfairly impact Sonn which tilts the balance of harms to her.
3 Movants have an adequate legal remedy if they can prove their claims, and are pursuing 4 it. That is the proper procedure here. The injunction should be denied.

5
6
7 Dated: May 8, 2024

SIEGEL, YEE, BRUNNER & MEHTA

8 By: /s/ Sonya Z. Mehta
9 Sonya Z. Mehta

10 Attorneys for Marlena Sonn
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19
20
21
22
23
24
25
26
27
28